Important Note

1. Please check the seal number and its position before unloading. If there is any seal broken please do not unload, (Some time in rout any department investigation then they may open our team will inform the same not on last moment).
2. Our oil measurement will be considered valid only at the same temperature as during loading. If there is a variation in temperature due to weather, please wait until the product temperature stabilizes to the loading temperature. After the temperature matches, if there is any difference in weight, Gyanti Multiservices will accept such variation as temperature difference.
3. Differences may arise due to evaporation, temperature variation, handling losses, and weighing scale accuracy. For petroleum products (Industrial Oil, Base Oil, Lubricant Oil), the normal allowable difference is up to 0.5% of Net Weight. Gyanti Multiservices will not accept any shortage if it is equal to or less than this parameter. However, if the shortage is above this limit, we are ready to accept it. (For reference, you may check Google for TT Club – Contractual Tolerances in Bulk Material Handling.)
